MODERN WAYS OF ACHIEVEMENT OF SUSTAINABLE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

¹Vinnitsia National Technical University

Abstract: The article examines the current state of the innovation sphere of Ukraine and proposes measures to promote sustainable development of the national economy

Key words: innovation activity, innovation process, innovation system, competitiveness.

Today, the classical industrial society with its characteristic features - a developed labor and capital market has been replaced by its post-industrial stage, which is dominated by information, knowledge and other "intangible" values, which become a decisive factor in effective development of enterprises, their competitiveness. production of goods and material services to the dominance of non-productive services. In fact, the world has already exhausted the opportunities for improvement and further progress of old technologies, instead, a phase of active growth of new technologies is developing, capable of making revolutionary changes in the economy and society in general. Under the influence of science there is a transformation of the economic system, intensified scientific, technical and innovative activities.....

The collective monograph "Developments in Information & Knowledge Management for Business Applications" includes practical knowledge from various aspects of information and knowledge management in business:

- Information processing and modelling
- Informational business development challenges and strategies
- Methods to collect and analyze information/data for the enterprise management
- Applications, benefits, and innovations in the area of business
- Solutions to increase performance using up-to-date IT technologies

Important information for authors.

- 1) Important dates:
 - submission deadline - no later than 01.02, 2023;
 - information on inclusion of the manuscript in the monograph - no later than 30.04 2023;
 - publication of the collective monograph by Springer publishing house - no later than 31.08. 2023.

(The dates may be changed due to the war between Russia and Ukraine and due to the global pandemic situation caused by COVID-19).

2) Articles must be formatted according to the standard Springer template and have a volume of 20-40 pages.

3) Number of authors must be no more than 5, with no more than 4 authors having the same affiliation. It is desirable (but not necessary) to have in the author's team a co-author(s) with a foreign affiliation.

4) Authors should submit only original works that were not published and are not being reviewed for another peer-reviewed publication. If authors used their previously published work(s) as the basis for a new publication, they should cite the previous work(s) and very briefly indicate which new contributions the publication proposes apart those in the previously published work(s).

5) Plagiarism is unacceptable. Verbatim copying or reusing own research is also considered as a form of plagiarism or self-plagiarism; it is unacceptable. The similarity of the text, including own works, must not exceed 25%.

6) Excessive self-quoting is not desirable. Authors can make references to their works, provided that their content complements or contributes to better understanding the research material. The level of self-citation must not exceed 20% of the total number of references in the bibliography. The manuscript should not have an excessive list of references. The maximum number of references for manuscripts of 20 pages is no more than 30-40 references, and for manuscripts of 40 pages no more than 70-80 references. The references should be contemporary (for the last 5-8 years) and relevant.

7) All submitted manuscripts will be reviewed at three stages. The first stage review will be performed by members of the organizing committee of the conference (checking the manuscript content for compliance with subjects of the monograph and design requirements, checking the level of text matching). The second stage review will be performed by editors of the collective monograph (checking the scientific and practical aspects of the manuscript content). The third stage review will be performed by members of the Springer editorial board.

8) The publication (prepress preparation of the collective monograph section) costs 100€. Authors will receive payment notifications after passing the last third stage of the review. The payment must be in hryvnias according to the current NBU exchange rate on the day of payment. After the payment, the authors will receive confirmation on inclusion of their manuscript in the collective monograph.

9) Authors are not recommended to submit the full text of the manuscript as a preprint. This may cause rejection of the manuscript at some stage of the editorial process.
